DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hendrickson et al.

Hendrickson teaches the claimed apparatus having a mold base (14) and can accommodate different mold inserts (36) that would have different cavity features. This allows for different parts production (Col. 5, lines 6-8) and that plastic is formed in the apparatus (Col. 5, lines 11-14). The inserts are the mold blanks that are placed into the recesses provided by the mold base.

Hendrickson fails to teach specifically teach mold blanks and the cavities adapted to form an extending tab and base portion of the key fob, and cavities of different sizes and shapes.

Hendrickson does teach the production of different parts, thus one of ordinary skill in the art understands that different cavity shape and sizes are inferred in Hendrickson.

In regards to the production of key fobs, this is merely a change in shape and sizes of the cavities, the interchangeable mold parts of Hendrickson allows for different mold parts to be placed and it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have different shapes and sizes of the cavity shapes to be used. It is merely a change in size and shape of the cavity surface for the mold product which is a design choice of the user and does not have a new or unexpected result from the change in shape and size for the apparatus.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 10/24/2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Hendrickson still teaches the claimed invention that one of ordinary skill in the art would have recognized. The side by side portion of the modular cavities (Fig. 10) can have one side of the change in shape and size, while the other portion forms the key fob and does not change.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
